Hope this hasn't been mentioned already but I am having some problems with JBL Creature II speakers with my MacBook. I bought a set a few weeks ago, they were fine untill one day were very quiet (as in no louder than my headphones). I took them back to the nearest Apple store (2 hours away by public transport) and had them replaced with a new set.

I was under the impression that both are 40w sets, the soundsticks II have a 20w sub and 10w per channel/speaker, but does that mean that it is actually 10w for each little speaker on the sticks, or for the stick as a whole? And then the JBL creature speakers have a 24w sub and 2 8w speakers, putting it at 40w.
