The popular excuse to justify the “it is impossible” outlook is the idea of outsourcing the idea or the possibility to others. We justify and rationalize our positions by offering an alternative person, time and place. This takes the burden of responsibility off our shoulders and places it on others.

Science fiction is any idea that occurs in the head and doesn't exist yet, but soon will, and will change everything for everybody, and nothing will ever be the same again. As soon as you have an idea that changes some small part of the world you are writing science fiction. It is always the art of the possible, never the impossible.
